CHKS to sponsor HSJ Acute Organisation of the Year Award 2008

CHKS Group, the UK's leading independent provider of healthcare intelligence and quality improvement services, is to sponsor the Acute Organisation of the Year category at the prestigious HSJ Awards 2008.

The award recognises excellent performance in the delivery of high quality, patient-centred care within the acute sector. Out of the 18 awards this is one of only two that involves a site visit to shortlisted hospitals - each lasting three hours. Last year the award attracted entries from across the spectrum of acute healthcare providers and was won by South Tees Hospital Trust.

Matt Murphy, Marketing Director, CHKS Group, said: "This is the fourth year running that CHKS has sponsored the HSJ Awards which are highly respected for their focus on best practice in all areas of healthcare provision. Those hospitals that are shortlisted for this award are trailblazers and all deserve recognition amongst their peers."
